

Ade Olumide is the Chair of the board of directors for the Transparency Institute, registered officially in January 2023 as a Canadian non-profit organization, with the following missions:

Research Mission: Forge a greater consensus and cooperation among various levels of government and other stakeholders through evidence-based research that include comparative, policy, and field research, of complaints and compliments transparency best practices in priority research locations that include over 50,000 law enforcement organizations in Canada, USA, UK, EU, Australia, New Zealand.

Awards Mission: Advance education for democratic institutions priority sectors, priority locations, and the general public on law enforcement misconduct, service, policy, internal, formal, and informal complaints accountability and compliments transparency.

Training Mission: Reduce the disproportionate cost of the lack of transparency on the reputation of good officers and the s7 Charter of Rights to life, health, safety, and security of Indigenous people, women, and visible minorities through the development of training materials for on-site and off-site conferences for democratic institutions priority sectors that include: police associations or boards or chiefs or officers or professional standards or investigators or adjudicator or legal services, councillors, public safety ministers or chiefs of staff or directors of policy, access to information personnel, crown counsels and defence or employment lawyers, ombudsmen or auditor generals or privacy or conflict of interest or integrity commissioners or other government or non-government organization transparency personnel.

Ade Olumide is a democracy rights defender, he holds a Bachelor in Mechanical Engineering, Masters in Business Management, he also studied Supply Chain Management and developed the revenue planning system for a $4 billion dollar manufacturer. He was a Policy Advisor for an Ontario legislator and is currently studying constitutional law for administrative tribunals. As the former president of the Municipal Taxpayer Advocacy Group, Ade drafted a motion on affordable Hydro and persuaded 37 municipalities across Ontario to pass the motion.

Ade Olumide